Good News For Homemakers

Fight Inflation When Purchasing Inflation

As consumers we need new ways to look at wardrobes, new clothes and their prices. Think about the cost per wearing of a garment. A coat that will be worn all winter almost every day needs to be more sturdy than one that might be worn only on special occasions. It will probably cost more, but since it is worn daily, the cost per wearing will be lower.

A dress or suit that a person likes and feels comfortable wearing, though it may cost $80, may be a better value than a less costly one that the person doesn't feel at ease wearing.

Think about the clothing that can be worn all year. A jumper to which a sweater can be added in cooler days can be a good buy. A dress that can have a sweater added to it and made into a nice ensemble for cooler days can also be a good buy. Skirts out of year-round fabrics are also excellent buys.

Versatile clothing is a better bargain, too. A coat with a zip-out lining so it can be worn in mild and colder weather can be a better buy than two coats of different weights.

Be wary of high fashion or fads. It can be very expensive since some of the designs are not expected to last more than one season. Take the fashion in small bits. An accessory, or tie or handbag can make an outfit highly fashionable and can be easily changed for the next season.

An inflation fighting idea this week is about when to look for clothing sales. Traditional sales of clothing are offered by many major clothing firms in certain months.

Sylvia Porter, an economist, whose daily column appears in many newspapers, has compiled the following list:

They are school clothing--August and October; Children's clothing-July, September, November, December; Bathing suits-after the 4th of July, July and August; Women's and children's coats-April, August, November, December; Men's coats--January and August; Dresses-January, April, June and November; Furs-January and August; Handbags-January, May and July; Children's hats-July, December; Hosiery-March and October; Housecoats-April, May, June, October and November; Infant's Wear-January, March, April and July; Lingerie-January, May and July; Men's shirts-January, February and July; Boys and Girls shoes-January, March and July; Men's and Women's shoes-January, July, November and December.

Homemakers, we hope the above sales information will be helpful to you as you attempt to fight inflation and provide better clothing items for your family.

If you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call 352-8244 or write the Appomattox County Extension Office, P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, Virginia 24522. Have a good week, homemakers!

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
3 eggs
3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1½ cups Mini Chips
